Gus Simms had to stay at home election day to fight fire but will not play Democrat and stay home to fish on the day of the general election. Joe Young, Egbert Gregory and J. B. McMahan took dinner with George Miller on the fourth and listened to George talk on farming and Stock raising and were particularly interested in what he said about preparing the soil for alfalfa. George has some fine hogs and he is a good talker.

The party at Simms' Saturday night in honor of the Osage girls was a success.

As the time approaches the people say more and are getting more anxious to attend the Chautauqua. This part of the county will be well represented by a good number, especially to see and hear Olie Reed and Governor Taylor.

I. P. McCain of Mokane is with his daughter, Mrs. Sam'l Cole and will remain there for some time. He is over eighty years old and very feeble. WILL THINK MORE.
